Robert C. Schulte, DPM

A Solid Education for His Patients

“A strong education is a vital gateway in the pursuit of medical excellence. I am dedicated to constantly upgrading my knowledge to give my patients the most advanced podiatry care possible.”

Board Certified: American Board of Podiatric Surgery
DPM: Magna Cum Laude, Scholl College of Podiatric Medicine, 1993

Surgical Residency: Loretto Hospital, Chicago, IL

BS: Biology, Colorado State University, 1989

Professional Licensure: Colorado

Membership Has Its Privileges

“So much is changing in podiatry. New developments come along all the time in treating complex injuries. Membership in professional groups helps keep me up-to-date on the latest methods to use as additional tools to assist my patients.”

Diplomate: American Board of Podiatric Surgery

Fellow: American College of Foot & Ankle Surgeons

Member: American Podiatric Medical Association,
Colorado Podiatric Medical Association

A Quest for Knowledge

“Over the years, I’ve used my continued training to better understand the finer points of treating feet and ankles. When I’ve seen effective techniques, I’ve made it my goal to study and implement them. The more in tune with innovation I am, the better your care will be.”

Continuing Education: Exceeds annual requirements

Advanced Training Includes: Minimally Invasive Endoscopic Surgery, Orthotics, Physical Therapy, Laser, Reconstructive Foot and Ankle Surgery, Arthroscopic and Endoscopic Procedures, Non-Invasive Heel Pain Surgery

“It’s important for a podiatrist to spend quality time listening to you as a patient.

By focusing on your individual needs, I can more effectively address your concerns and provide the proper care.

My commitment to your health begins with open communication and ends with functional improvement.”
