In the event that a tropical storm or hurricane should strike South Florida, we recommend that you make arrangements to board your animal in a facility away from the coast, any flood zones and the effects of the storm. Camelot Animal Hospital is located near canals and other bodies of water that may cause severe flooding and prevent our hospital staff from gaining access to the building.

Our primary concern is the well-being of your pet. In the event of severe weather, the potential for loss of electricity, air conditioning and fresh water would limit our ability to provide the optimum care that your pets need and deserve. If evacuation is recommended, lack of qualified personnel could impact the quality of care that we would be able to provide.

If a Tropical Storm WATCH is put into effect for the South Florida area, we recommend that you consider making alternate arrangements for boarding. If your animal is already boarding with us you will be contacted and asked to make other arrangements for the care of your animals. All animals boarded during a tropical storm watch MUST have a local emergency contact that is willing to retrieve the animal should it become necessary.

If a Tropical Storm WARNING is put into effect for South Florida, no boarding reservations will be accepted. Owners of animals already in the kennel or hospital will be contacted and asked to transfer their pets to a facility away from the track of the storm. In the event of evacuation, Camelot Animal Hospital will be CLOSED and pets will not be able to be evacuated or released. There will be NO STAFF presence during a tropical storm or hurricane at our hospital. As weather permits and as long as restoration of key services has occurred, we will resume normal business hours and become available to care for your pets. Camelot Animal Hospital and Boarding Kennel cannot be held responsible for any animals that are not picked up before Hospital closing due to a tropical storm or hurricane.

I hereby acknowledge that I have read the foregoing and fully understand the terms and conditions set forth.
