

IDS International Announces DoD AM&E Win

Arlington, VA – March 25, 2020 (PRESS RELEASE)

IDS International has won a seat on the Department of Defense (DoD) Assessment, Monitoring, and Evaluation (AM&E) Security Cooperation Support Services contract.

IDS's assistance in this extraordinary DoD assessment, monitoring and evaluation initiative will strengthen fact-based decision-making and improve the effectiveness of security cooperation throughout the DoD system, and with partner nations.

DoD AM&E is a five-year, indefinite delivery/indefinite quantity, multi-award contract with task orders awarded for a variety of results-focused projects. Contract support activities range from planning support, program design, execution, administration, and implementation of security cooperation initiatives. Additionally, IDS will provide expertise in justifying, managing, and utilizing assigned program resources, including budget and personnel.

DoD AM&E is an extension of the mission-critical work IDS has been performing in conflict-ridden communities, globally. IDS's work on programs such as USAID's Monitoring Support Project and INL's Flexible Implementation Assessment Team requires the same expertise executing on crucial assessment and monitoring program activities.
