From the Theater Manager

What a year it has been! We have experienced the lows and highs of the human experience during the pandemic. In the world of performing arts, it is hard to put into words the devastation that wrecked our industry. COVID-19 toppled arts organizations indiscriminately… both large and small. On a personal note, I have spent my entire life working in the performing arts, and the consequences of this pandemic were devastating to watch. Many of my closest friends, who make their living as artists, found themselves not knowing how to feed their families. I spoke with several booking agents and touring artists who were forced to give up their careers due to the uncertainty caused by COVID. Closer to home, I watched the Rialto go from its best year on record in 2019 (with over 260 events and revenue that almost doubled from 2017) to a year where revenues dropped nearly 75%, and we produced only a fraction of the events from the previous year. Our closure also meant that Rialto employees experienced months-long furloughs while our long-time renters had no performance home. Groups like Loveland Opera Theatre, Loveland Choral Society, and many others had to take time off with no means of recouping lost income. It is fair to say that the pandemic battered our industry and bruised our theater.

Yet, there were also moments of triumph. Folks came out of the woodwork to help each other in a myriad of ways. From large-scale, national benefit concerts to smaller events closer to home, those that had the means to help did so in meaningful ways. We also found inventive strategies to keep the arts alive at a time when we needed them the most. At the Rialto, with the generous help of our non-profit partner Backstage Rialto, we invested in live-streaming equipment that allowed us to share virtual content from our stage to your home.

The question I most often get asked is where we go from here? The good news is that there is light at the end of the tunnel. Soon, we will sit shoulder to shoulder and again experience the thrill of live performances. We are at the dawn of the next chapter and we invite you now to support the Rialto and the many organizations who call our theater home as well as the performing arts in general. Performers need an audience. Theaters need performers. And you need arts and culture. Let's rebuild together!

PAULA POUNDSTONE

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 6, 8PM

Appearing on stage with a stool, a microphone, and a can of Diet Pepsi, Paula Poundstone has one of comedy's most nimble and disarming comic imaginations. In a review of Poundstone's show for The Boston Globe, Nick Zaino III wrote, "Her talent for creating humor on the spot has become the stuff of legend. She improvises with the crowd like a jazz musician, swinging in unexpected directions without a plan, without a net. You know that she is a great comic the way you know any fine performer when you see one—there's a disarming ease in her craft, an immediate sense that she's so quick on her feet you need never worry about the possibility of something going wrong."

JAN 15

THE HILLBENDERS

SATURDAY, JANUARY 15, 7:30PM

Formed in April 2008 and still touring with the original lineup, The HillBenders have firmly established their presence as one of the most energetic and engaging progressive acoustic bands on the scene and they continue to wow audiences from stages around the country and around the world. Just over three years ago the band shifted their focus away from original music to tackle their recent critically-acclaimed "Tommy: A Bluegrass Opry" release. This was a strategic choice for a band that first made their name with a barrage of catchy, original songs. While it proved to be an extremely successful decision, vaulting the band onto the global stage, it took the bands time and attention away from their roots and from the very music that started their career. Now, The HillBenders have shifted their focus back onto their originals and have released their fourth studio album, appropriately and eponymously titled "The HillBenders".

CALIFORNIA GUITAR TRIO WITH MONTREAL GUITAR TRIO

FEB 11

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 11, 7:30PM

Featuring six virtuoso guitarists from four countries (Japan, Canada, Belgium, and US), California Guitar Trio (CGT) and Montreal Guitar Trio (MG3) fuse over 45 years of combined performing experience into one unique 6-by-6-string 'phenomensemble'. In a pleasantly surprising way, CGT's steel stringed-guitars blend naturally with MG3's nylon-stringed guitars, as each trio's fret boards chase the others' original compositions and new arrangements of progressive rock, world, jazz and classical music.

COME SEE THE NEW MURAL

The back door to the Rialto Theater Center hallway is currently a public use as a pass-through to Fourth Street in Downtown Loveland and was seen as an ideal opportunity for a public artwork installation. The Visual Arts Commission selected Amelia Furman to create a vibrant, welcoming environment within this pedestrian connector hallway. We invite you to come see it for yourself!

A Word from the Artist, Amelia Furman:

This art installation is a celebration of the history of the Rialto and how it has shifted and transformed through time alongside the evolution of performance, art and film. The mixed media original paintings take visitors on a journey through both histories and how they are interwoven. These pieces also invite viewers to remember what the Rialto has provided for the community throughout the years—laughter, connection, inspiration and more. We often lose sight of the value of the arts, forgetting that it is in the arts that our minds and souls are renewed and refreshed and a town's culture is created.

This entire installation, composed of mixed media original paintings and hand-painted mural elements utilizes the art deco and art nouveau styles that you can find throughout the Rialto. The entire pass-through is meant to be an art experience for all who use the space, reminding folks that the arts are integral to our community and that we each make up a small portion of a bigger masterpiece called Loveland.
