FarmHouse Fresh Plans Major Donation of Dog Beds to TAPS No-Kill Animal Shelter

Comforting Dog Beds will Allow Homeless Dogs to Sleep Tight

What: McKinney, Texas-based FarmHouse Fresh plans a major donation of comforting dog beds (valued at $3,645) to TAPS No-Kill Animal Shelter, located in Pekin, Illinois. The beds will be delivered and assembled by FarmHouse Fresh team members with volunteers from Senara Health and Healing Center & Spa in Peoria. The 66 beds will include small, medium and large beds and mats in a range of thicknesses, so that the rescued dogs can have a warm place to sleep and be ideally presentable to the public for adoption.

This donation of dog beds is part of FarmHouse Fresh's ongoing charitable initiative to help forgotten and abused animals, which includes publishing an endearing 18-page picture book featuring shelter dogs, titled: Is It True They Call You the Dog Bed Fairy? (retail $10), where $7 from the sale of each book goes toward the purchase of these dog beds.

"Our goal is to bring smiles to dog and animal lovers, while providing comfort, warmth and love to our furry friends in shelters, plus raising public awareness of their need for a permanent home," says Shannon McLinden, CEO and Founder of FarmHouse Fresh, an award-winning natural and organic skincare company located in McKinney, Texas. The company has donated tens of thousands of dollars' worth of dog beds to shelters and rescues across the country this year, including the recent donations of over $2,000 worth of beds to Almost Home Humane Society in Indiana, $4300 worth of beds to Clay County Animal Shelter in Florida, and $2,500 worth of beds to Vorhees Animal Orphanage in New Jersey.
